While this sample submission only lists 20 credits, the Board encourages registrants to include a few more credits beyond the minimum, as this facilitates the review if there are any questions about the credit weight of any particular activity. However, the Board is not suggesting that every Continuing Competence activity carried out by psychologists needs to be listed, only some additional activities should be included in the submission.

Psychologists are expected to establish learning objectives in at least 3 of the Core Competency areas each year. Additionally, in a 3 year period, registrants are encouraged to establish learning objectives for all 5 Core Competency areas.

For information about the various Continuing Competence activities and their credit values, please see the Continuing Competence Activities and Credit Values Table (below)
