2.2.3 Criminal check

Applicants outside of Canada may obtain a criminal check by clicking here and visiting the website for CSI, a company that completes international background checks:

https://www.csiscreening.com/?option=com_content&view=article&id=3&Itemid=3

It is generally quickest to obtain your check via the online option provided in the link above, and you can arrange for the results of your check to be sent directly to NSBEP. If using the above option to order your criminal check online you can arrange for the organization completing the background check to share it with NSBEP and any other organization that requires such information, e.g. your employer in Nova Scotia. However you can also go to the local police in your country of residence to obtain your check. If you are ordering checks from your local police, you should order enough copies of any background checks so that an original copy will be provided to the NSBEP and also your Nova Scotia employer, and any other organization(s) that requires this information for you.

2.2.4 Child Abuse Check / Declaration

In some jurisdictions, another organization will provide a separate check in relation to matters involving child abuse. The onus is on the applicant to contact the appropriate authorities in his/her jurisdiction and obtain the required check. If you are applying from a jurisdiction that does not allow this information to be provided to the Nova Scotia Board of Examiners in Psychology, please ensure that you electronically sign both Section 1 and Section 2 of the Child Abuse Registry Declaration in the application form. You should order enough copies of any background checks so that an original copy will be provided to the NSBEP and also to your Nova Scotia employer, and any other organization(s) that requires this information for you. Please note: Background Checks must be received before an individual can be registered. Applicants must allow sufficient processing time when submitting their application. Background checks must have been completed within the last 6 months from the date of application in order to be considered acceptable to the Board.

2.2.5 Information about Program of Study and Coursework – for degrees that are not CPA / APA accredited

The Board will need access to information about the graduate program and faculty when the program was taken by the applicant. For example, determining the professional status of faculty members (e.g., whether the majority and core faculty were comprised of psychologists, etc.), the admission requirements and other elements of the training program. This information could take the form of a program handbook which provides information about the program, course descriptions, and admission requirements. Generally if your graduate program was taken in the last 5 years then such information may be available online via the university's website. You should determine whether this is the case. If this is the case, then it is sufficient to provide website links (full URL address) for information about your program so the Board can quickly verify programmatic information. This information can be provided in your application materials. However, if such programmatic information is not readily available online, the onus to provide complete evidence rests with the applicant and you should not rely on the Board to obtain this information. In such an instance (where information about the program is not readily available online), you should provide documentation about the graduate program along with your application if you possess such documentation (electronic /scanned copies can be provided). Lastly, you may need to contact the university to request that they obtain programmatic information from their archives and send this information to the Board. In cases, where information is lacking, the Board may require the applicant to obtain official transcripts from their training. Applicants are responsible for payment of all costs.
